

Rector's message to CIT Academic and Administrative staff and its students

Dear colleagues and students,

I really wish and hope that you are all healthy and unaffected by our common enemy, the greatest of all times for mankind, COVID-19. I am also delighted to find out that the colleagues from our academic and administrative staff and CIT students have not been affected by COVID-19. However, I share the grief of people and families outside the CIT community who have been affected by the above-mentioned malicious virus.

Dear students, like you, I feel privileged to be among colleagues and students in the most prestigious institution in the study programs for which CIT has been specialized, something that we have all been witnessing in these difficult moments. E-Learning platform, especially established for distance learning by means of extracurricular programs under the motto “CIT- Go Digital” as well as other platforms offered by “Google Suite” reinforce the leading position of CIT not only in the country but also in the region. By means of E-learning platform as well as Google Classroom, Google Meet and Sketch Board currently being used, we have guaranteed that the teaching process continue online since the very moment when in-house teaching was canceled, which clearly revealed the leading and contributing role played by the community of CIT.

I am optimistic and certain that we, our country and global society organized in all its levels and capacities, even though by enduring costs and fatalities, will overcome both this individual and collective obstacle.

In addition, some good news for all of you and a very special and heart-felt compliment for our colleagues Bledar Kazia and Ibrahim Cekiri as well as the master student Denis Xheleku, who established “CIT Solidarity against COVID-19” platform.

“CIT Solidarity against COVID-19” represents an interactive communication platform which serves as a support to all Albanians provided as a gift to the Ministry of Health and Social Protection, the institution at the forefront of the war against our common enemy, COVID – 19. The platform will become functional within a few hours and everyone can assess it at: www.raporto.cit.edu.al and distribute it freely as an achievement of CIT community.

Soon, we will invite you to another open and interactive platform where you can contribute with ideas and initiatives for society, on the one hand, and ultimately promote the achievement of CIT community, i.e., CIT students, academic and administrative staff, on the other hand.

Sincerely,
Reis Mulita
CIT Rector
